

Math Workbook Pages

Salaam Families,

I wanted to quickly restate the math homework routine this year. With this page, I have attached all the Go Math chapter 1 workbook homework pages. If your child's books aren't in yet, I have made copies of the pages. As stated in our parent handbook, I will be sending home all the pages near the beginning of each chapter. You will know what lessons are being covered for the following week in math from our Friday newsletter. You can work with your child on these pages going along with our class curriculum, or you can have them do a few each day after a couple of lessons and they have absorbed how to complete the tasks, or you can save them for the end of the chapter right before our test for a review. Whichever way you choose, students do not need to bring back these math pages for me to check. However, if you want to send back a specific page for me to check and go over with them, please send that in. I will still be constantly reviewing and going over the concepts in class, even if students don't show me the workbook pages. This does NOT mean they don't have to do any pages. Please have them do it at a good pace. The main math homework is our math practice games. Last week, an odd and even game card went home in the homework folder pouch that is to be played with a deck of cards. This week another game will be attached. Check the homework log to see which games to review as time goes on. Whenever your child plays a math game, check it off on the homework log so that the check marks can count towards our weekly class total in order to earn class incentives.
